

Reliable IT security for large corporations and SMEs

Independent experts in cyber resilience

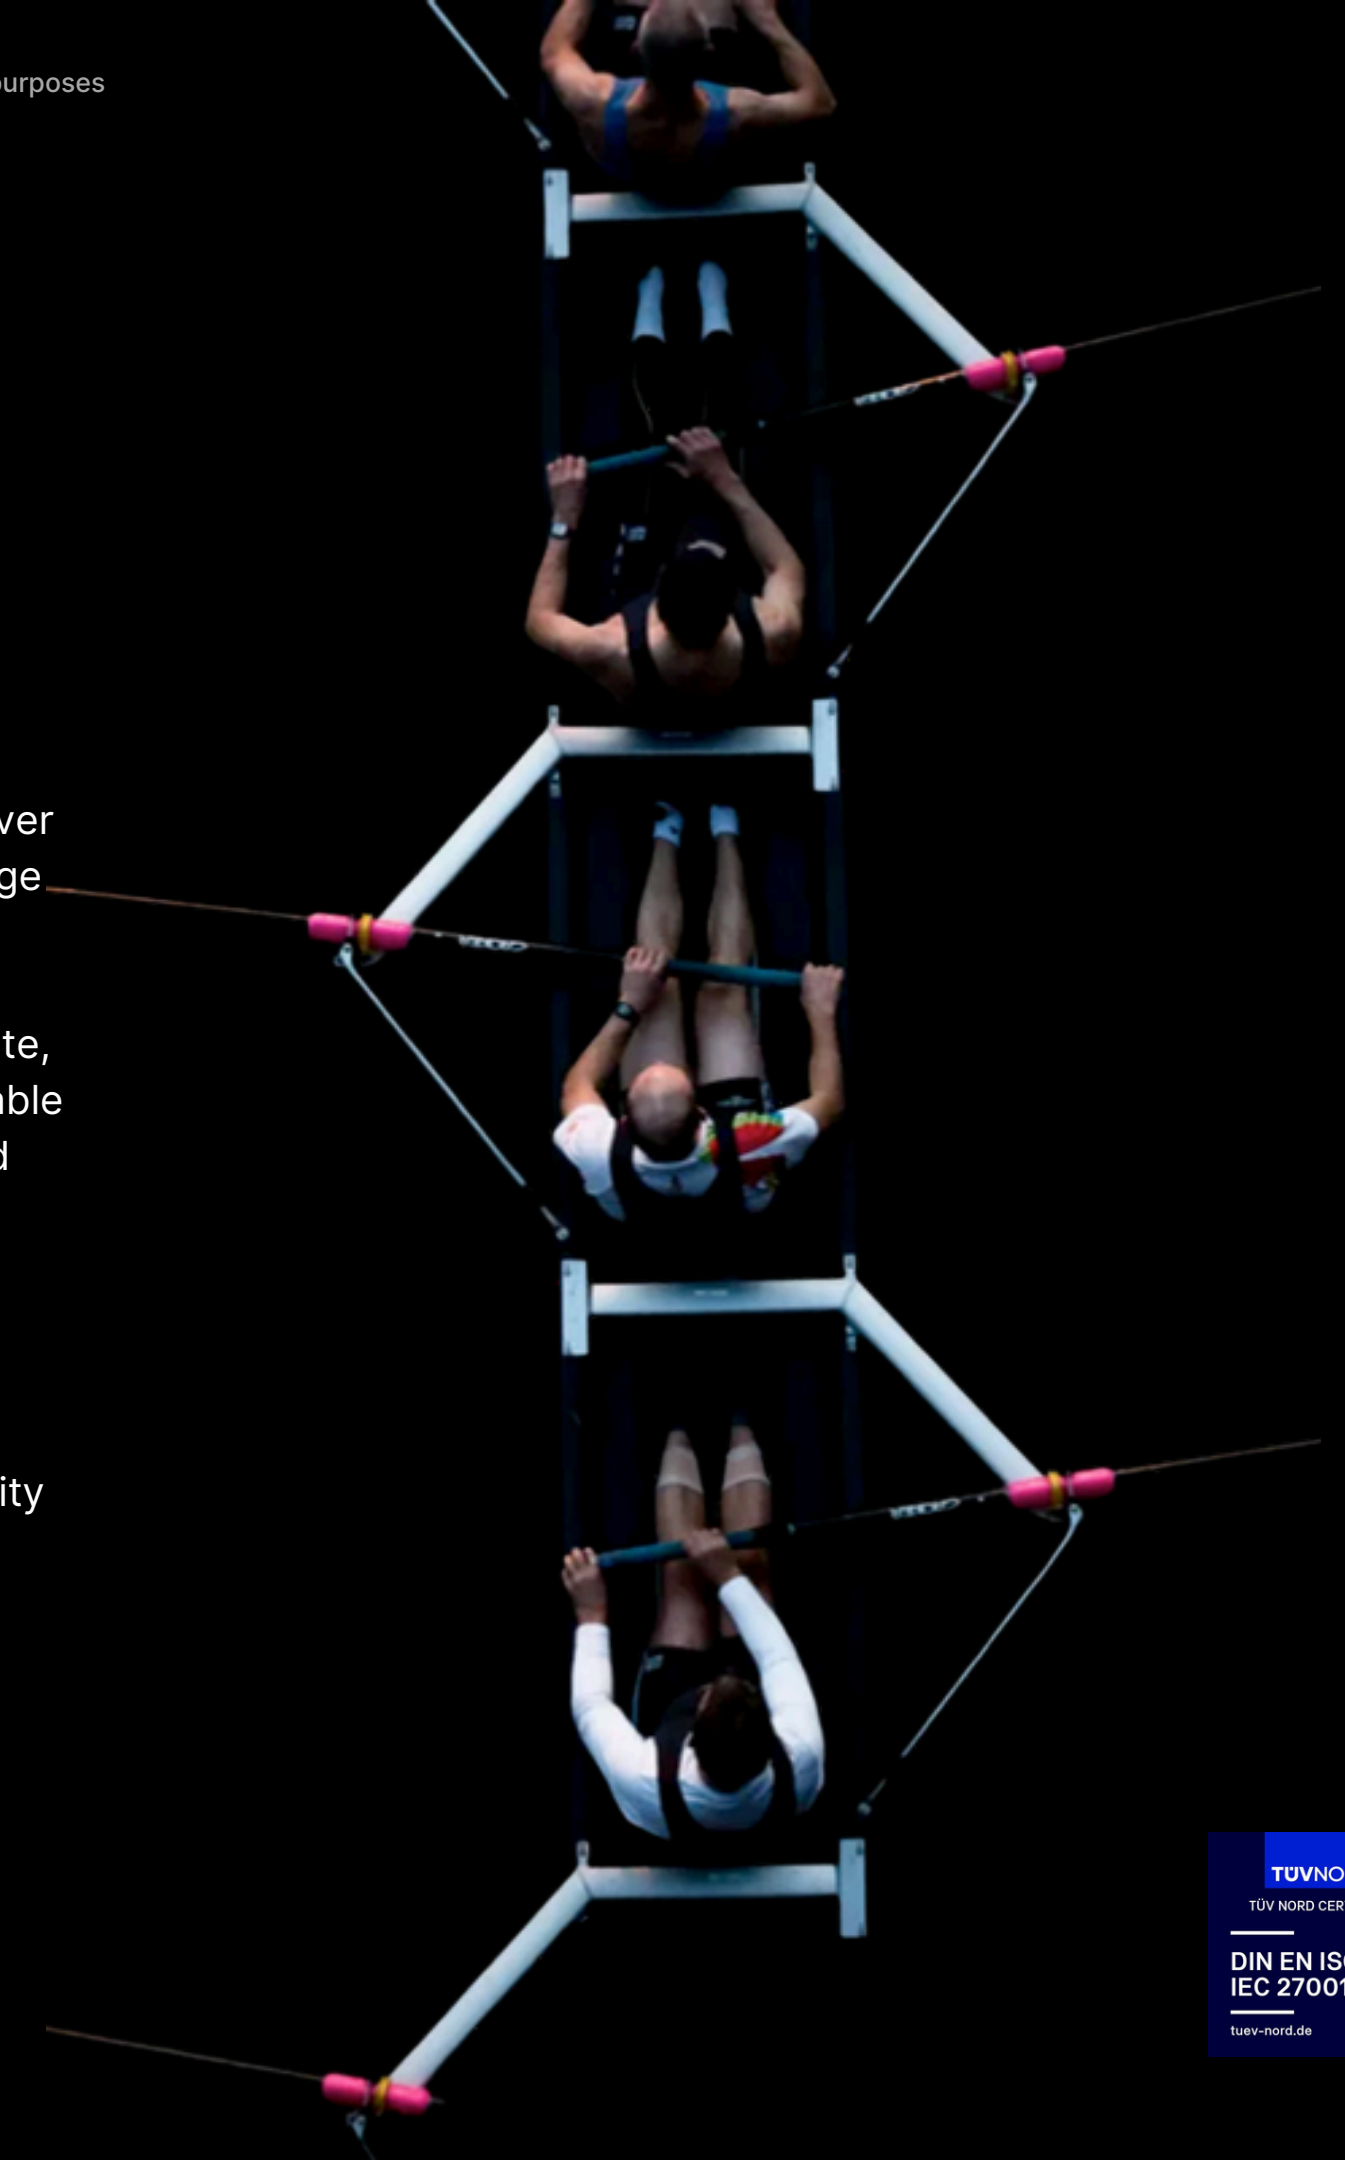

We are an independent cybersecurity consulting and audit firm with more than nine years of experience and over 400 projects delivered across highly regulated industries. Our expertise begins where technology vendors, large system integrators, and global consulting firms often reach their limits.

Our core discipline is manual IT security assessments. This gives us deep insight into how real attackers operate, how they think, plan, and exploit vulnerabilities in practice. We translate this perspective into effective, actionable security measures. In doing so, we combine an attacker's mindset with the operational constraints of regulated organisations. The result is security that is technically robust, regulatorily sound, and operationally viable. For large enterprises, regulated sectors, and critical infrastructure operators, we deliver manual security assessments and strategic security consulting wherever a deep understanding of real attacker behaviour is essential.

For mid-sized organisations, we act as a long-term strategic partner, taking responsibility for the overall security posture. This includes managing all security-relevant aspects and ensuring that cybersecurity remains stable, consistent, and operationally effective.

We stand for independent, high-quality cybersecurity services designed for real-world conditions and resilient under pressure.

We rely exclusively on permanently employed experts, as true security is built on trust, continuity, and accountability.

Founding story

Who would have expected that an idea to identify security vulnerabilities would grow into a recognised cybersecurity company within just eight years. At 16, supported by a special authorisation from the local court, I began working as a freelancer from my childhood bedroom. One year later, I founded what is now KALWEIT ITS GmbH.

From the start, the focus was clear: understand systems the way attackers do and turn that insight into real security improvements. Year by year, the work became more structured, more demanding, and more impactful. Today, we operate for leading organisations across retail, banking, and insurance. For the past six years, we have served as the primary penetration testing provider for one of Germany's largest employers with more than 350,000 employees. We work exclusively with permanent in-house experts. Independent, owner-managed, and focused on delivering substance over noise. If you are looking for cybersecurity that is direct, rigorous, and built on real-world testing, we should talk.

We think like attackers.
And act like partners.

01

Independent and vendor-neutral

We provide independent, vendor-neutral consulting with continuous personal availability, without call centre or ticketing structures.

02

Industry understanding meets IT expertise.

Across healthcare, financial services, banking, energy, and critical infrastructure sectors, we are familiar with both the regulatory requirements and the operational realities of your industry.

03

Consulting methodology

Effective cybersecurity is need-based, clear, and practical. Our expertise is rooted in what matters most: the attacker's perspective.

04

In a partnership of equals

Grounded in traditional Hanseatic merchant values, we stand for reliability, integrity, and long-term partnership, ensuring that cybersecurity and trust go hand in hand.
